

WILSON HAND SEEN IN THE RESIGNATION OF JUSTICE CLARKE

Politicians Wonder Whether
It Is Move to Head Off
Boom for Cox.

HE MAY BE CANDIDATE.

Jurist's Espousal of League
Cause Links Him With Ex-President.

(Special to The Evening World.)
By David Lawrence.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (Copy-Right).—Did Woodrow Wilson have any connection with the resignation of Justice Clarke from the Supreme Bench, to which he originally nominated him; or, to put it another way, did the influence of Woodrow Wilson bring about the retirement of Mr. Clarke at the very moment when the return of former Governor Cox from Europe revives the latter's presidential boom?

These questions have been variously asked and answered by Democratic politicians, who cannot believe Mr. Clarke's primary reason for leaving the bench is to read books, but that his real reason is to take an active part in the advocacy of American membership in the League of Nations. Mr. Clarke's own letter to President Harding stated he wished to serve his neighbors and espouse public causes. The most important cause in the mind of Justice Clarke is the League of Nations, and his thoughts run so much along the same lines as those of Woodrow Wilson that his entry into the political arena as a champion of the League would surely be followed by some expression on the part of the Democrats of Ohio in favor of Clarke for President.

The Democrats could not object to a candidate from Ohio, since it is not unlikely that Mr. Harding will be re-nominated unless he declines to serve again.

In any event, the biggest fact about the Democratic situation is that for some reason or other Mr. Wilson is not overly fond of Jim Cox as a candidate, much as he likes what Mr. Cox has done in advocating the League of Nations as a Democratic issue.

Possibly it is that Mr. Cox was so overwhelmingly beaten and possibly because Mr. Wilson would prefer another type of candidate, and possibly it was because the former Ohio Governor was nominated as a result of a combination of leaders in the Democratic Party who in Mr. Wilson's opinion are unfriendly to him himself—the truth is that if the former President were asked his ideas on the subject and he were to give them frankly he would not urge Mr. Cox for the Presidency.

It was because Mr. Wilson steadfastly refused to send a letter of greeting to the dinner in honor of Mr. Cox just before his departure for Europe—that Mr. Wilson and Mr. Tumulty, his former Secretary, tell out.

Certain circumstances make it appear that several of Mr. Wilson's friends in Ohio who can interpret his mind are back of Justice Clarke's resignation from the bench. One piece of circumstantial evidence is brought forward in Democratic circles thus: For many months, Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War in the Wilson Cabinet and the man who to the last has retained Mr. Wilson's unbounded confidence, has been asked to participate actively in Ohio politics. He refused. Yet recently, when he was asked to accept the chairmanship of the Cuyahoga County Committee of the Democratic party, he accepted, much to the surprise of these same observers, who now believe he was inspired by a desire to help the Wilson cause in Ohio through the intervention of Justice Clarke into the situation.

As a piece of political strategy, the lining up of the Ohio delegation for Clarke instead of Cox would have an important bearing, no doubt, on the action of a National Democratic Convention. Assuming that Mr. Clarke is himself not a party to the politics of the situation, and is simply interested in espousing the League of Nations, nevertheless his availability as a Democratic candidate for the Presi-

ROSALIE BARCLAY ENGAGED TO WED WALTER F. GORDON

The engagement was announced to-day of Miss Rosalie Barclay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Barclay of Barclay Brook, Short Hills, N. J., and Walter F. Gordon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Gordon of Newburgh. Miss Barclay was one of last year's debutantes and was active in the Junior League. She is a descendant of the Rev. Henry Barclay, who was rector of Trinity Church in 1748 and married the daughter of Anthony Rutgers. Mr. Gordon served on a submarine chaser throughout the war. He is connected with the Western Electric Company.

POLICE RESERVES USE THEIR CLUBS; REBUKED BY COURT

Their Prisoner Discharged and Minutes of Trial to Go to Enright.

After hearing the evidence brought against Joseph Galligie of No. 173 East 96th Street, Maurice McHenry of No. 179 East 96th Street and Jacob Witkin of No. 24 Lenox Avenue by Police Patrolmen Kaplan and Nugent to-day, Magistrate Overwager in Harlem Court to-day discharged the prisoners, reproached the policemen and said he was going to send the minutes of the case to Commissioner Enright.

A policeman in uniform had scattered a group of loungers at 96th Street and Fifth Avenue last evening. A rumor reached the East 104th Street Station that the policeman was having trouble. Kaplan and Nugent were sent to his aid. They did not find him but did find the loungers. Galligie the reserve men rushed into the group jailing about them with their clubs. Galligie was struck on the head and ran. Kaplan chased him, firing his pistol into the air. He handcuffed the boy, who is only sixteen years old, and took him to the station.

McHenry, and Witkin went into protest against the way Galligie had been treated and were also put under arrest by order of Lieut. O'Grady and were charged with disorderly conduct.

WINDPIPE CLOGGED BY BUTTON 4 DAYS, BABY GIRL DIES

Dangerous Location of Swallowed Cuff Link Prevents Doctors From Operating.

As the result of swallowing a cuff button she picked up on the floor, Juliana Donato, fifteen-month-old daughter of Mrs. Maria Donato, No. 2485 Cumbrell Avenue, the Bronx, last night died after four days of suffering. Hospital surgeons with the aid of X-ray machines were able to locate the cuff button, but found it lodged in the windpipe in such a manner as to prevent an operation.

The child swallowed the button without a member of her family seeing her do it. Her gasps were the first signal her mother had of the trouble. Mrs. Donato rushed the baby from one physician to another and from hospitals in the Bronx to others in Manhattan in the hope of finding some one to save her child.

All refused to operate and told the mother that the button would have to work its way to the stomach. The child breathed with difficulty during the last two days and subsisted on small quantities of milk.

Dr. K. Sellers, Kennard, of the Bronx Medical Examiner's office performed an autopsy last night and verified the diagnosis of the physicians who said the button was lodged in a dangerous place that prevented operating.

COSTA RICAN ASSEMBLY REFUSES TO RATIFY TREATY.
SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Sept. 9 (Associated Press).—The Costa Rican National Assembly, called in special session by President Acosta for consideration of the Central American treaty of peace and amity signed at the recent conference amid the U. S. S. Tacoma, has refused to ratify the pact.

Assembly is being widely discussed by Wilson men, as he has the stature and intellectual capacity for the job. At this, of course, is predicated on the theory that Jim Cox can be beaten in a State he has thrice carried. He is a fighter who knows no obstacles and he is never beaten till the votes are actually counted—and some of his friends say not then either.

SWALLOWS IODINE BEFORE FIANCEE AND FORTY GIRLS

"I'll Say That's Love," Says
One of the Forty Ad-miringly.

Charles Comerato, nineteen, No. 345 East 118th Street, is in Lincoln Hospital with a combination of iodine, raw eggs and flour yielding slowly to the persuasion of a stomach pump. This condition is the result of the great love the young man bore for Miss Mary Di Benedetto, the same age, and employed with him at the Donato Dress Company, No. 3210 Third Avenue.

Miss Di Benedetto lives at Hoffman Avenue and 152d Street. The couple, according to reports were very much in love, but Comerato had a mother, a sister and a brother and decided he could not support a wife just yet. The young woman in the case couldn't see it that way and they parted.

This morning with four ounces of iodine in one hand and a farewell note in the other he appeared at the factory and in the presence of forty girls said farewell and tossed off the iodine. The forty screamed so loudly that Detective McCarthy, a block away, heard the chorus. He saw the battle and hurried down stairs to a bakery, got the eggs and flour and while another policeman held up the young man's head poured the eggs and flour down his throat until an ambulance surgeon arrived.

At the hospital it was said the young man will live due to the first aid by McCarthy. The note he waved to his sweetheart read:

"My Love—I loved you with my whole heart and I thought that you were mine. Now there is nothing left but death and pain. Goodbye, remember me always. CHARLES."

"I'll say that's love," remarked one of the girl friends who held the hand of the object of Charles's affection. "When a fellow tries to kill himself for you and right before everybody, just like that."

SUE COUNT TO ANNUL U. S. CITIZENSHIP

Said to Have Obtained
Papers After Property Seizure.

Suit to annul the citizenship of Count Rudolph Featetics de Tolna, of Hollis, L. I., was begun to-day by the Government in the U. S. District Court, Brooklyn. The Government claims he is a citizen of Austria-Hungary, though he contends he received citizenship papers in San Francisco in 1906, but that the original record was lost in the fire.

The Count lodged a charge that in 1914 France seized his yacht Tolna and a chateau on the ground that he was an alien enemy. The Government's suit of to-day came as a result of investigations of this charge. France declared that the Tolna flew a Hungarian flag when seized.

According to the United States District Attorney's office, the Count has not been a resident of this country for five years prior to the time he said he became a citizen, also it was held that he obtained papers in California after his property had been seized. The Count is said to own a riding academy at Hollis. His wife is an American.

FREE PUBLIC CONCERTS.

Carolyn Shuster Back to School For Attempting an Elopement

Young Woman Who Tried to Wed William Morris Is Held in Seclusion.

GLASGOW, Ky., Sept. 9.—Carolyn Shuster, eighteen, daughter of Morgan W. Shuster, President of the Century Company and former diplomat, was secluded in her home here to-day and her mother would allow no one to see her.

The girl, who eloped Wednesday night with William Morris, eighteen, son of a Glasgow merchant, as found at Goodnight, eight miles from here, the elopement having been balked by the breakdown of an automobile.

The elopers with four boy companions planned to go to Jeffersonville, Ind., to be married, but their machine broke down near Cave City.

After spending the night at the home of a farmer five miles from Glasgow, the couple and Roger Dickinson waited while the three other boys returned to Glasgow to get another machine. The plan then was to double on their tracks and go to Tennessee.

About five miles from Glasgow a wheel came off the machine. Then they arranged to stay the night at a farmer's.

The three who went for another car were to meet the elopers at 8 o'clock last night if they could not return to the appointed spot by daylight Thursday. Then they were to proceed with the elopement. But in the vicinity of the rendezvous yesterday the three boys found members of the family searching. The elopers then were overtaken.

Carolyn's family took her immediately to her home and would not permit her to talk with Morris. She will be sent to school in New Jersey at once.

DETECTIVE SHOT BY VICE CRUSADER IN TEA ROOM FIGHT

Harry Kahn Exonerated After Accidentally Wounding
George Hughes, Partner.

Detective George D. Hughes, twenty-three, attached to the Special Service Division, the old Vice Squad of the Police Department, was accidentally shot in the left side at 1:30 A. M. to-day by Harry Kahn, thirty-five, No. 179 East Third Street, a vice crusader for the Committee of Fourteen, in the Gloria Tea Room, No. 218 Lenox Avenue.

After Hughes had been attending in Harlem Hospital and his wound found not to be serious, and Kahn's credentials had been proved all right, the police said Kahn would not be arrested. Two women and a man were arrested in the tea room, but no formal charge has been made against them.

According to the detective, he and Kahn went into the place, which is near 121st Street, to eat. Two young women joined them and in a short time the detective and the vice investigator displayed their shields and told them they were under arrest.

The lights were suddenly turned off, Hughes said, and he and Kahn were attacked with fists, chairs and other weapons by several of the thirty men and women in the place. Kahn was battered into a corner, and seeing a form approach, fired one shot. Policeman John Masterson of the West 123d Street station heard Kahn and he and running in found the switch with his flashlight and turned on the lights. It was then discovered that the form at which Kahn had fired was his partner, Hughes, who after being treated at the hospital, went to the police station and exonerated Kahn and he went to his home, No. 152 East 96th Street.

EUROPE IN PERIL TILL REPARATIONS ISSUE IS SETTLED

Gov. Cox, Back From Europe,
Stresses Danger—Says
France Did Not Dictate.

Former Gov. James M. Cox, of Ohio, returned to-day on the steamship Paris after a comprehensive tour of England, France, Germany, Switzerland, Italy and Czechoslovakia. While abroad the Democratic presidential candidate conferred with many of the leading statesmen of these countries.

"The chief economic need in Europe to-day," he said, "is the settlement of war reparations. There can be no economic stability I believe, until this question between France and Germany is settled. I believe that if the United States entered the situation, we, as mediators, could bring about an adjustment."

"If Germany doesn't survive economically she will drag Austria down to ruin with her and France, thereby, will get nothing. The prosperity of Europe depends upon the establishment of credit and this will not come until the reparations matters are settled and there is a stop to the great expenditures for military purposes."

"The severe reparations terms of the Versailles Treaty were not dictated by France," he learned that as soon as I arrived in Europe. "When Gov. Cox was asked about the League of Nations, he replied:

"I don't believe the League will long be a political issue in the United States, the thing I can say, and that is that the League would accept any consequences of actions or thoughts the United States might propose. But these must be consequences, not passed on to others."

"Senator McMillan's visit to Geneva, where the League meets, while I was in Europe. He went there to study the League and remained twenty minutes. He had a photograph taken of himself standing outside the building with Earl Balfour and then left, saying the League of Nations was a total failure."

Of the British position in the country, the Governor said: "The country is suffering from the Republican sins of communism as well as those of omission. I'm surprised that anyone is at all disturbed because the Republicans in charge promised to restore normalcy."

Gov. Cox will remain in this city until to-morrow, probably, and then go to his home near Dayton on Sunday.

The Lantry Scott, sailing passenger on the Paris, said that outwardly the conditions in Europe were prosperous, but there was a serious undercurrent in Germany and Austria. Other passengers were Miss Tina Morgan, Mrs. W. G. Rockefeller and Robert Wanamaker.

Rich Man's Son and Heiress Elope, Earn Living, Forgiveness

Young Kipp Refuses Father's Help. Wife Gets Job, Blessings Following.

Their declaration that they had lived by their own efforts and are able to continue to do so led to the discovery to-day that Warren A. Kipp Jr. and Miss Gladys Dorothy Hiltz, who eloped last December and earned the disapproval of his family, which now, however, is friendly toward the young couple.

Kipp is a son of the general manager of the National Sugar Refining Company at Yonkers. His bride, eighteen, is the ward of Francis G. Dale, a lawyer, at No. 52 Wall Street, and him in the custody of two maternal grandmothers, once Mayor of Montreal.

All Mr. Dale did last December was to check the marriage license and the certificate at Beacon, N. Y., and then gave them his blessing. The Kipp family took more time about it.

The lawyer said to-day he conferred with the Kipp family on behalf of the young couple soon after the marriage and found the mother less inclined to soften than the father. It was finally agreed that the father would give his son an allowance of $1,200 a year and would pay his tuition until the boy finished his medical course.

At that time Kipp was in his final year of academic work at Columbia and had still four years of medicine ahead. When the Columbia year ended last June he asked his father to discontinue the allowance.

"I'd sooner get along on my own for the rest of the medical course," he explained to-day. "I'll go to school during the day and work at night."

He is working now behind the counter in the Richards auto supply shop at No. 231 West 58th Street. His wife called for him there last night.

"I've got a new job," she told him. "I'm to do modelling."

"What is modelling?" he asked. "Dress modelling in a wholesale dress house," she said. "I wear them; buyers look and then they buy them."

Mrs. Kipp Jr. was made a ward of Mr. Dale three years ago, when her mother suffered a nervous breakdown. When she comes of age she will inherit a moderate amount of money.

She met Kipp at a dance at Cold Spring, N. Y., where the senior Kipp has a summer cottage, and was well liked by the Kipp family until their son eloped with her.

Calls are exchanged between the Yonkers home of the Kipp seniors and the room the juniors rent from Miss Mary White at No. 3109 Broadway.
